

Job Posting: Freelance Blog Post Writer

ExpertWords is currently seeking a freelance writer to produce high-quality blog posts on a variety of cybersecurity and privacy-related topics. As a freelance writer, you will be responsible for researching and writing blog posts that are informative, engaging, and relevant to our readers.

Responsibilities:

Conduct research on cybersecurity and privacy-related topics to create informative and engaging blog posts

Write high-quality, error-free content that meets our editorial standards

Collaborate with our editorial team to ensure all content is on-brand and aligned with our content strategy

Meet deadlines and follow editorial guidelines and instructions

Provide revisions and edits as needed

Requirements:

- Proven experience as a content writer, copywriter, or similar role
- Excellent writing, research, and analytical skills
- Familiarity with cybersecurity and privacy best practices and guidelines
- Ability to write in a variety of tones and styles to appeal to different audiences
- Understanding of content marketing principles and strategies
- Ability to work independently and manage time effectively

We are looking for writers who are experienced in writing about cybersecurity and privacy-related topics, specifically on the following topics:

- Understanding the dangers of online phishing scams and how to protect yourself
- Tips for creating strong and secure passwords
- The importance of keeping your software and systems up to date to avoid vulnerabilities
- How to recognize and avoid malicious websites, emails, and attachments
- The benefits and risks of using public Wi-Fi and how to stay safe on public networks

- Understanding two-factor authentication and how to use it to improve security.
- The consequences of online tracking and how to reduce your online footprint.
- How to securely store sensitive information online, such as credit card information.
- The dangers of using unsecured or unreliable online services and how to assess their trustworthiness.
- Best practices for keeping your personal information and identity safe on social media

Compensation:

Payment will be offered on a per-post basis.

The fee for each blog post will depend on the length, complexity, and research required.

Payments will be made promptly upon acceptance of the blog post.

If you are a passionate writer with a strong understanding of cybersecurity and privacy-related topics, we encourage you to apply for this freelance opportunity. To apply, please submit your resume, writing samples, and a brief cover letter outlining your qualifications and interest in this position. We look forward to hearing from you!